Thanks for the reference from unicode.org, @BennettMcElwee. As for me, I would certainly "prefer" that the apostrophe and the right single quote be treated as distinct glyphs if they're semantically distinct, so ' remains the best choice IMO. Basically, it seems that some people don't like it for not being curly enough (as a token of typographic seriousness, I dunno...) but that's beside ...

Other colours are a surprise! Also, I am not American, so I call "œperiods" full stops and I spell words the right way. I've tried to avoid discussing things Americans and other people disagree on in this guide (and specifically mention it when it does come up), but one or two little things may have crept in, for which I apologise (with an "œes" in advance).

When it hits the fan America's population centers will explode in violence, looting, and total breakdown of law and order. It's a theory put forth by numerous survival and relocation specialists, and one that makes complete sense if you consider what happens in a truly serious collapse-like scenario.
