(PDF) Advances in Cold-Region Thermal Engineering and Sciences

Intended for physicists, engineers, geoscientists, climatologists and cryologists alike, these proceedings cover topics such as: ice formation and decay, heat conduction with phase change, convection with freezing and melting, thermal properties at low temperature, frost heave and permafrost, climate impact in cold regions, thermal design of structures, bio-engineering in cold regions, and many more.

Advances in Cold-Region Thermal Engineering and Sciences

A comprehensive and state-of-the-art review on the advances in VCASHP systems in cold regions was presented in this paper. To achieve a better understanding of these advances, the advanced systems were classified into three major types: single-stage, dual-stage and multi-stage compression systems.

ADVANCES IN COLD REGION THERMAL ENGINEERING AND SCIENCES

Technological advances for cold regions in research, development, and engineering practice are relevant to the journal. Theoretical papers must include a detailed discussion of the potential application of the theory to address cold regions problems.

Using typical public buildings in Severe Cold and Cold Region as examples, this work will analyze and study the energy consumption situation and influencing factors of office building energy consumption using an orthogonal experimental method.

Advances in Mechanical Engineering 2017, Vol. 9(11) 1â€“21

Visuals might make the difference compared to other works and underlines your results. To complement your e-Poster presentation and to make it available to a broader audience, authors are requested to provide a five slide presentation file (accepted formats are: .pptx, PDF), including multimedia material.

Advances in Cold Regions Geotechnologies Conference 2019

Chinese, Swiss Italian and Russian papers discussed aspects of landslides in cold soil, whereas the remaining papers discussed aspects cryospheric landslides (mainly) in rock. A subset of these last papers dealt with rock instabilities on the Mont Blanc massif.
