EMISAJ is a scholarly peer-reviewed open access journal with a unique focus on novel and innovative conceptual modeling research and its applications (about the journal): "Conceptual Models, Enterprise Models and Information Systems Architectures should be researched from different perspectives, angles, and backgrounds, with a multitude of theoretical and practical lenses and mindsets.

Enterprise Modelling and Information Systems Architectures

• Please see the "Developing a conceptual architecture model" entity relationship diagram in the lobby through the remainder of the working group. Approved for public release, 17 -194 work on architecture modeling of Android and architecture-based security analysis. Building on this, we define the requirements for an architecture style for Android security analysis in Section 3 and then describe the Acme architecture style in Section 4.

Developing a Conceptual Architecture Model

Architecture Modeling and Analysis for Embedded Systems

An enterprise architecture tries to describe and control an organisation's structure, processes, applications, systems and techniques in an integrated way.

Enterprise architecture at work: Modelling, communication

PDF | Architecture frameworks are methods used in architecture modeling. They provide a structured and systematic approach to designing systems. To date there has been little analysis on their ...
