Charles Kuen Kao was born Nov. 4, 1933, in Shanghai, according to a biography released by the Nobel Foundation. His mother wrote poetry and his father was an American-educated judge.

During his working life, Sir Charles Kuen Kao has been given numerous Awards. yet amazingly, the thing he is most famous for was done in the same year as he gained his PhD.

Kao was born on November 4, 1933, in Shanghai, China. His father was a lawyer who received his JD degree from the University of Michigan (United States) in 1925 and became a professor at Soochow University (Shanghai).

Charles K. Kao was born on November 4, 1933 in Shanghai, China. His father Kao Chun-Hsiang was a lawyer as well as a professor at Soochow University.

In 2010 Charles and Gwen Kao founded the Charles K. Kao Foundation for Alzheimer's Disease to raise public awareness about the disease and provide support for the patients. In 2016, Kao lost the ability to maintain his balance.

In 1942, young Charles Kao (second from left) with his family. The first child born to the couple was a daughter, followed two years later by a son. Misfortune struck.

Charles K. Kao, Nobel-winning optical fiber pioneer, dies at 84

If you are reading this, thank Sir Charles Kuen Kao, for it would be impossible without him. No Google. No Twitter. No Daily Kos. No email, instant messaging or Netflix. None of it would be possi...

Charles K. Kao—inventor of Fibre Optic Technology, passed

Charles K. Kao—Father of Fiber Optics

If you are reading this, thank Sir Charles Kuen Kao, for it would be impossible without him. No Google. No Twitter. No Daily Kos. No email, instant messaging or Netflix. None of it would be possi...

My hero Charles Kuen Kao has passed away

Charles Kuen Kao was born in Shanghai on the 4th of November 1933. He is a Chinese-born Hong Kong, American and British electrical engineer and physicist who pioneered in the development and use of fibre optics in telecommunications.

Charles K. Kao—Biographical—NobelPrize.org

Charles Kuen Kao was born on November 4, 1933 in Shanghai, China. His father Kao Chun-Hsiang was a lawyer as well as a professor at Soochow University.
his mother was a poet.

Charles Kuen Kao, Nobel laureate celebrated as father of Charles Kuen Kao was born in Shanghai on Nov. 4, 1933, to a wealthy family, according to an autobiographical sketch published by the Nobel Foundation. His father, Kao Chun Hsin, was a judge, and ...

Charles Kao, Nobel Laureate Who Revolutionized Fiber
The Honourable Sir Charles Kuen Kao, GBM, KBE, FRS, FREng (4 November 1933 â€“ 23 September 2018) was a Chinese-born Hong Kong, American and British electrical engineer and physicist. He helped discover the development and use of fiber optics in telecommunications.

Charles K. Kao - Simple English Wikipedia, the free
Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering 1965 from University of London, UK.