Fuzzy Analytical Hierarchy Process (FAHP) is proposed to evaluate project complexity using the chosen criteria. Employing the Fuzzy AHP method in group decision-making facilitates a consensus of decision-makers and reduces uncertainty. An example of application is presented to display the utility of the model.

A Fuzzy Approach to Model Evaluation of Project Complexity

This book presents a systematic study on the inherent complexity in fuzzy systems, resulting from the large number and the poor transparency of the fuzzy rules.

Complexity Management in Fuzzy Systems: A Rule Base

This book presents a systematic study on the inherent complexity in fuzzy systems, resulting from the large number and the poor transparency of the fuzzy rules. The study uses a novel approach for complexity management, aimed at compressing the fuzzy rule base by removing the redundancy while preserving the solution.

Complexity x Uncertainty = Fragility  $\notin$  Today, we think that uncertainty is the biggest concern when designing and making decisions.  $\notin$  However, the problem is not uncertainty, it is complexity.  $\notin$  When uncertainty meets high complexity, the result is fragility. Simple systems can cope better with uncertainty than highly complex systems.
