Cultural Nationalism in Colonial Korea, 1920-1925 - [PDF

Nationalism is usually conceived of as a state-oriented political project. There has been much less scholarly focus on nationalists whose primary aim is the formation of national communities. In this chapter I argue that we need to give more attention to cultural nationalist movements that precede or accompany state-oriented nationalisms.

Colonialism, Nationalism, Neocolonialism

Nationalism became powerfully intertwined with mobilized ethnicity in struggles, not to destroy but control post-colonial states. Efforts at democratization actually increased ethnic conflict, especially conflicts about autochthony, which focused on the meaning of national citizenship, belonging, and access to the resources of state and market.
