ENI: Drilling In Extreme Environments - Offshore Technology

Extreme offshore hydrocarbon operations require strong, durable, and corrosion-resistant materials. Unfortunately, materials currently used in offshore oil and natural gas operations, tubulars for all operations and associated blowout preventer (BOP) components, have reached their limit of effectiveness in terms of operating environment.

Get extreme performance in extreme environments. We're in the forefront of developing synthetic-based compliant emulsion systems for drilling in challenging downhole conditions—such as deepwater and HP/HT. And, we make sure these new muds will meet the industry's™s stringent environmental requirements.
