In the last ten years efforts at modelling practical problems in foundation analysis using a strength-of-materials approach have developed the concept of the conical bar or beam as a tool. Such cone models can be used to model a foundation in a dynamic soil-structure interaction analysis with a variation of the properties with depth.

Beginning Vibration 2 Introduction Understanding the basics and fundamentals of vibration analysis are very important in forming a solid background to analyze problems on rotating machinery. Switching between time and frequency is a common tool used for analysis. Because the frequency spectrum is derived from the data in

Foundation Vibration Analysis Using Simple Physical Models

To analyze the vibration theory of machine foundation we need to assume that the machine foundation has single degree of freedom. Normally machine foundation has 6 degree of freedom. So, these three mass, stiffness and damping coefficient are required to complete the analysis of machine foundation ...

cluded in a foundation analysis and de-sign process to reduce the likelihood of vibration in reciprocating and rotating compressors. First, a site and equip-ment analysis must be completed. Second, a dynamic foundation analysis should be performed to identify where foundation stiffness is required to avoid resonance of machine components.
