In computer programming, the scope of a name binding is an association of a name to an entity, such as a variable. It is the region of a computer program where the binding is valid: where the name can be used to refer to the entity. Such a region is referred to as a scope block. In other parts of the program the name may refer to a different entity (it may have a different binding), or to ...

1. Introduction. In the Mediterranean basin, water resources are primarily found in alluvial aquifers that are linked with stream deltas, and in karst aquifers that are widely dispersed across the coastline (Aureli et al., 2008, Nicod, 2009). This vulnerable water resource is overused for drinking, irrigation, domestic use and industrial development (Margat and Vallée, 1999, MED-EUW1 WG, 2006).
