Geopolymer cement is a binding system that hardens at room temperature, similar to the more widely-known Portland cement.

Geopolymer cement - Wikipedia

Geopolymerization is the process of combining many small molecules known as oligomers into a covalently bonded network. The geo-chemical syntheses are carried out through oligomers (dimer, trimer, tetramer, pentamer) which provide the actual unit structures of the three-dimensional macromolecular edifice.

Why Oilwells Leak: Cement Behavior and Long-Term Consequences

Most concrete produced today includes either chemical additions to the cement, chemical admixtures in the concrete, or both. These chemicals alter a number of properties of cementitious systems, including hydration behavior, and it has been long understood by practitioners that these systems can differ widely in response to such chemicals.

Impact of admixtures on the hydration kinetics of Portland

Introduction. Portland cement concrete has clearly emerged as the material of choice for the construction in the world today. This is mainly due to low cost of materials and construction for concrete structure as well as low cost of maintenance.
