The Orchidaceae are a diverse and widespread family of flowering plants, with blooms that are often colourful and fragrant, commonly known as the orchid family.. Along with the Asteraceae, they are one of the two largest families of flowering plants. The Orchidaceae have about 28,000 currently accepted species, distributed in about 763 genera. The determination of which family is larger is ...

Hey Ric, Sorry for the late reply Ric, I was in China and just got home last night. Some Epipactis species (hellebore orchids) can look like Cyps when not in flower. Another look alike plant is Veratrum viride and associated species of that genus. Again, out of flower the plants look much like a Cyp, especially C. reginae. I hope that helps.

Bruce Peninsula National Park - In the heart of a World Biosphere Reserve, the park contains massive, rugged cliffs inhabited by thousand year old cedar trees. The park is composed of an array of habitats from alvars to dense forests and several small lakes. Together these form a greater ecosystem - the largest remaining chunk of natural habitat in southern Ontario.

2. The origins of Native Americans and their food. It is commonly believed that the first Native Americans crossed from the Old World into the New World across the Bering Land Bridge that joined Siberia to Alaska at least 15,000 years ago, but disappeared shortly thereafter. Although the passage of time renders it impossible to know for certain how, when, or why the Asian ancestors of the ...
