The planning. In all research, it is essential to begin by clarifying what the researcher wants to find out, from whom and how. The purpose may be of a descriptive or exploratory nature based on inductive or deductive reasoning. Inductive reasoning is the process of developing conclusions from collected data by weaving together new information into theories.

INTRODUCTION. Nowadays, it has become ever more common to observe problems regarding labor dissatisfaction among hospital nursing staff. These are due in part to problems with labor organization 1 in the hospital units and how such problems are managed. This dissatisfaction is also due to relationship problems and the absence of adequate communication, which encompasses active listening ...
