Computational detection and understanding of empathy is an important factor in advancing human-computer interaction. Yet to date, textbased empathy prediction has the following major limitations: It underestimates the psychological complexity of the phenomenon, adheres to a weak notion of ground truth where empathic states are ascribed by third parties, and lacks a shared corpus.

In economics, time preference (or time discounting, delay discounting, temporal discounting) is the current relative valuation placed on receiving a good at an earlier date compared with receiving it at a later date. There is no absolute distinction that separates "high" and "low" time preference, only comparisons with others either individually or in aggregate.

The term chronophilia was used by John Money to describe a form of paraphilia in which an individual experiences sexual attraction limited to individuals of particular age ranges. The term has not been widely adopted by sexologists, who instead use terms that refer to the specific age range in question. An arguable historical precursor was Richard von Krafft-Ebing's concept of "age fetishism".

I have found a fix to this annoying problem. And it must have something to do with Adobe Reader 9 not having enough time to load the PDF. In Adobe Reader 9: Click 'Edit', 'Preferences...', 'Internet' (In the sidebar), Uncheck 'Allow fast web view'. I think this is much better than completely preventing it from displaying in the web browser.
