While probabilistic logics in principle might be applied to solve a range of problems, in practice they are rarely applied --- perhaps because they seem disparate, complicated, and computationally intractable.

questions posed in non-probabilistic logics, in Part II we show that probabilistic networks can help answer the fundamental question of probabilistic logic. The programme of this bookâ€”namely that of showing how the fundamental question can (i) subsume a variety of inferential procedures and (ii) be answered

Probabilistic Logics and Probabilistic Networks

Probabilistic Logic: models are probability functions. Use probabilistic networks to represent the models. Use probabilistic networks to calculate $P(\Gamma)$ for model P .

The aim of a probabilistic logic (also probability logic and probabilistic reasoning) is to combine the capacity of probability theory to handle uncertainty with the capacity of deductive logic to exploit structure of formal argument. The result is a richer and more expressive formalism with a broad range of possible application areas.
