The Bradford protein assay was developed by Marion M. Bradford in 1976. It is a quick and accurate spectroscopic analytical procedure used to measure the concentration of protein in a solution. The reaction is dependent on the amino acid composition of the measured protein.

Bradford protein assay - Wikipedia

Proteins are assembled from amino acids using information encoded in genes. Each protein has its own unique amino acid sequence that is specified by the nucleotide sequence of the gene encoding this protein. The genetic code is a set of three-nucleotide sets called codons and each three-nucleotide combination designates an amino acid, for example AUG (adenine-uracil-guanine) is the code for ...

1. Introduction. Bone morphogenetic protein-2 (BMP-2) is one of the most potent osteoinductive molecules from the BMP family and can induce bone at both entopic and ectopic locations , , . The biological half-life of commercially available BMPs is very short (< 12h) , and the development of carrier materials for site specific delivery may enhance the bioactivity of BMP in-vivo.
