The Requiem could be considered as combination of these two tendencies with some new features added. The Requiem appears with the Introit, from the darkness of lower register and disappears with Lacrimosa in the shining light of high register. The Introit, by the way, also begins in low register and ends in high register.

A German Requiem Although it is assumed that Brahms wrote the Requiem in memory of his mother's death in 1865, he always denied it. Certainly that event played a major part in the Requiem's composition, but it had been in Brahms's mind as a composition as far back as Robert Schuman's suicide death in 1856.

A German Requiem, to Words of the Holy Scriptures, Op. 45 by Johannes Brahms, is a large-scale work for chorus, orchestra, a soprano and a baritone soloist, composed between 1865 and 1868. It comprises seven movements, which together last 65 to 80 minutes, making this work Brahms's longest composition. A German Requiem is sacred but non-liturgical, and unlike a long tradition of the Latin Requiem, A German Requiem, as its title states, is a Requiem in the German language.
