Sense of smell. The perception of odors, or sense of smell, is mediated by the olfactory nerve. The olfactory receptor (OR) cells are neurons present in the olfactory epithelium, which is a small patch of tissue at the back of the nasal cavity. There are millions of olfactory receptor neurons that act as sensory signaling cells.

Perfumes and other fragrances have been a staple of civilization for centuries. Since ancient times, people have relied on scents for beautification purposes, to convey information about themselves, and even to trigger memories. Choosing one perfume over another can be a highly personal activity and can be influenced by current preferences, past experiences, and even our genetic makeup.
