The city is not an artifact or a arrangement. On the contrary, the city embodies the real nature of human nature. It is an expression of mankind in general and specifically of the social relations generated by territoriality. Modern technology has altered but not eliminated territoriality as the city has come

"The city fosters art and is art; the city creates the theater and is the theater. It is in the city, the city as theater, that [humanity's] more purposive activities are focused, and work out, through conflicting and cooperating personalities, events, groups, into more significant culminations."

Lewis Mumford, "What is a City?" - Department of Geography

THE IMAGE OF THE CITY Kevin Lynch What does the city's form actually mean to the people who live there? What can the city planner do to make the city's image more vivid and memorable to the city dweller? To answer these questions, Mr. Lynch, supported by studies of Los Angeles, Boston, and Jersey City, formu-morning, the city was so dark that people might as well have been wearing blindfolds. Sometimes darkness fell in the middle of the day. The city of Ember was old, and everything in it, including the power lines, was in need of repair. So now and then the lights would flicker and go out. These were terrible moments for the people of Ember.
